Jim, Bob, Diane, and Bob (and others)- for awareness.

Jim and Kate - got any insight? I'm going to chat with JoAnn. But it sounds like this story has been in the works for a while.

I just heard a scathing report on NPR about EPA allowing large volumes of produced water to flow from wellheads over the ground to surface waters on tribal land. This activity was said to be on the Wind River Reservation and I think the activity was alleged to be a discharge allowed by the Beneficial Use subpart of Part 435. They interviewed Wes Martell, who is a tribal member that is on the Tribal Fracking workgroup. This story was very critical of EPA!
